GODAN PARTNER & SPEAKER PACK OVERVIEW

Dear Partner,

This pack is designed to support your internal and external communication activities around the GODAN Summit 2016.

It features information, which will provide a guideline for your press release content, social media output and general media activities, in order to ensure that a consistent brand narrative is maintained for GODAN and GODAN Summit 2016 across media.

We would be delighted for you to conduct your own PR activities and the team at Sterling Media, the international communications partner of GODAN, is on standby to support your campaign.

Should you wish to get in touch with a member of the team, please email godanmedia@sterlingmedia.co.uk which is monitored regularly. The team at Sterling Media would also be happy to guide and provide advice to your PR and copy-writing activities.

A Press Centre will be located on the 4th Floor of the event venue, East Room. The centre will be manned regularly with Sterling Media team members reachable at all times.

Interviews can be conducted against relevant event branding in an adjoining area to the Press Centre which we would be happy to coordinate for you.

Please see a link to access the official media kit for the GODAN Summit 2016, which will contains important information to support your PR activities:

PRESS RELEASES

As part of your PR activities, you may wish to send out press releases. In order to ensure that your release remains consistent with the brand narrative, please consult the official press release as per this link: goo.gl/tjqlwx

Please see below the official profile for GODAN and GODAN Summit 2016 should you mention the organization and event during your interviews, press releases, and general communications activities.

About GODAN

GODAN, or Global Open Data for Agriculture and Nutrition initiative, was formed to support and encourage the proactive sharing of open data to make information about agriculture and nutrition available, accessible and usable for unrestricted use worldwide, to deal with the urgent challenge of ensuring world food security.

GODAN focuses on building high-level policy, and public and private institutional support, for open data. The initiative encourages collaboration and cooperation among existing agriculture and open data activities, and brings together stakeholders to solve long-standing global problems in food and nutritional security.

About GODAN Summit 2016

At a ground-breaking public summit on 15th – 16th September, 2016 in New York, GODAN will convene world leaders, researchers, farmers, students and public, private and non-profit organizations, to showcase the impact of open data around the world.

The largest-ever event dedicated to open data and agriculture, the GODAN summit will take place on the margins of the UN General Assembly in New York in September. The aim will be to urge world leaders to open their national datasets on agriculture and nutrition to help bring hunger around the world to an end.
